European Conference on Acoustic Emission Testing

After 18 years abroad, the EWGAE conference will be held again from 12 to 14 September 2018 in Cetim's facilities in Senlis (France).

For 46 years now, acoustic emission will be the major subject of the conference. This complete and fast non-destructive testing method is perfectly suited to perform integrity tests on large structures. This is a passive technique which makes it possible to keep working times and costly shutdown periods to a minimum and allows, in particular, real-time damage monitoring of components in operation. Acoustic emission has seen constant technological progress, and the ambitious objective of EWGAE 2018 is to share these latest changes.

Simultaneously with the conferences, a scientific and technical exhibition will bring together the main stakeholders of this field.

Major topics of Ewgae 2018

- AE testing (pressure vessels, storage tanks, pipework, etc.)
- AE monitoring (structures, machines, process, etc.)
- Characterisation of materials by AE (metals, composites, concrete, etc.)
- Location of defects using AE
- Detection of corrosion using AE
- Leak detection using AE
- Application of AE in civil engineering
- Application of AE in geology
- Application of AE to transport equipment
- Application of AE in the medical sector
- Application of AE in tribology
- Detection and processing of AE signals
- AE data acquisition systems and processing software

Benefits of Sponsorship

The Sponsors will have several benefits through this strategic investment:

- to improve the visibility and reputation of the sponsor within industry and academic participants,
- to contribute to the success of high level International Conference dealing with acoustic emission testing,
- to have access to high level researchers and the decisions makers,
- to promote the sponsor products and services through the conference web site (sponsor logo)
- one or two pages product document to be inserted into the conference bag.
